DAY 02

Arrival in Canterbury Christchurch

On arrival in Christchurch - The South Island's largest city, Christchurch is an entertaining mixture of refined lifestyle and cultural excitement, you will be transferred to your hotel. The tranquil Avon River meanders through the city and adjacent Hagley Park, historic buildings house a lively arts community and restored trams make it easy for visitors to get around. Heritage sites, museums and art galleries, Tram & Botanic Garden and enjoy the highly developed restaurant scene you may like to visit after check in.

In pre-European times, Maori lived in a hunter-gatherer society, living on the provisions they could glean from the sea and forests. Unlike other Pacific islands, New Zealand had no large land mammals. The Otautahi (Christchurch) area in those times was a low-lying swampy area, a rich hunting ground for eels, inanga (whitebait), fish, native pigeons and swamp birds such as the pukeko and weka. The trees which grew in the area had edible shoots, and many other plants could be used for food and medicinal purposes. Kiwi and other feathers were useful in providing clothing, along with native flax which was abundant in this marshy area.

Maori lived in family groups in small villages (kaika) like Ko Tane, except in times of war, when they would retreat to a fortified Pa for safety. They were a warlike people, frequently clashing over territory and food supply, but tribes would also meet to discuss important matters, to grieve for the dead, or to celebrate.

Song and dance are a powerful way for individuals to express themselves, and through sharing this experience, people from all cultures are able to come together to express their common humanity. At Ko Tane we encourage members of the audience to take part in our performances.

Willowbank prides itself on its conservation and rehabilitation of rare & endangered New Zealand species. We invite you to watch, touch and feed our unique native wildlife, become friends with our farm animals and learn about the introduced pests that have influenced New Zealand's bio-diversity.

Your trip to New Zealand will not be complete without seeing the New Zealand kiwi bird - at Willowbank, our kiwis are housed in an open and natural enclosure allowing you incredible viewing. After dark the breeding pairs can be viewed outside under the stars (a world first). "Your Kiwi Guarantee" is our guarantee that all visitors will enjoy a kiwi experience. Kiwi viewing, kiwi hospitality and kiwi cuisine.
